OFFICIAL PAPER OF THE CITY OF AKRON.

TO TELEPHONE THE DEMOCRAT CALL
No. 180.

MONDAY, JULY 2, 1900.

The Prohibition convention at Chicago has adjourned. The party will poll about one per cent. of the total vote next fall, but the convention made about 90 per cent. more noise than either of the old parties could stir up.

The Ohio centennial project has been defeated through the influence of Gov. Nash's administration. Everything indicates that the Governor will have hard work keeping his fences in repair in the vicinity of Toledo when he runs for re-election next fall.

Voters who want to read the proceedings of a live convention this week should keep their eye on the dispatches from Kansas city. The advance guard of delegates already on hand there is giving plenty of evidence of the stirring scenes to come.

City Commissioner D. McGarry will remember the Warren convention when he reads the convention reports this week. He might have been taking part in the convention work if it hadn't been for the "hog combine," but there will be another convention.

Wayne county's Democrats are having a fierce fight among themselves because the nomination for Congressman did not come to that county. If our Democratic neighbors in that county want to place Wayne in the doubtful column they could not adopt a better course.

The Akron Democrat has respectfully submitted the News-Democrat's suggestion to "repair" the Summit county court house to the Summit county commissioners, says the Canton News-Democrat. If they need any pointers they may come over and look at the Stark county job, while his the finest in the state.

The Philadelphia papers are claiming that about 100,000 people were not counted in that city because of the incompetent work of the census enumerators. There will be plenty of other cities to make the same claim after the result of the enumeration has been announced. Blaming the enumerator is the easiest way out of such a predicament.

Senator Hanna's newspaper bureau has been given a tip to urge itself in behalf of the Senator's ship subsidy bill, which failed to get even a favorable mention in the Ohio or Philadelphia platforms. The editor of every Republican newspaper, from cross-roads to metropolis is humping himself creating enough sentiment to enable the bill to pass at the next session of Congress.

Mark Hanna claims that he had something to do with the control of the Philadelphia convention, but it is dollars to doughnuts that he is glad he does not have to tackle such a combination as is assembling at Kansas City. Every delegate there seems to be a walking declaration of independence and a law unto himself, and when they meet in convention the proceedings ought to make interesting reading.

HALF BUSHEL

Of All Day Suckers Were Given Away.

Wedding Serenaders Worked Hard
For a Treat.

For the past two or three days passersby have noticed a varied collection of battered tinware near the corner of N. Arlington and Munson streets. The collection is a large one, and consists of eight or ten large family wash boilers of the best McKinley tin. There are also numerous oyster cans and tea and coffee pots galore, and all present an appearance of having done service in an active campaign of some kind.

Now the curious have naturally asked: "Why and whence all this array of family utensils?" The neighbors explain the situation thus:

An Akron young man wooed and won an Akron maiden whose home was on the N. Arlington st. hill. After the marriage took place, which was a few days ago, the young sports of the neighborhood concluded that a treat was due them. When the matter was presented to the young man he arose in his dignity and invited them to go to a warm place—a place where they never expected to go. Then began a gathering of the clans and there began the collection of tin ware and musical instruments (?). Regular exercises opened at the eleventh hour of the night, and 'tis said the din and racket was such that the like was never heard before in that section.

It is said that the chickens deserted their roosts. Cats and dogs fled from the neighborhood and have not since been heard of. A pet goat belonging to one of the neighbors was found the next day wandering about near Cayuga Falls. At the end of an hour a half was called, and a committee waited upon the bridegroom to see if he was in a mood to furnish the treat. Beer, cigars, or any old thing would be acceptable. He was still obstinate and the exercises were renewed and lasted until far into the night. Finally the young man announced his willingness to capitulate. He would furnish no beer or cigars but there remained in the house about a half bushel of all day suckers left over from the wedding feast. These he would dispense to the crowd if they would desist. After considering the matter for a time it was decided to accept the proposition. The suckers were dealt out and the crowd departed sweet tempered.

Will Act Soon.

A meeting of representative citizens of Summit county will be held soon to discuss methods for the relief of the present overcrowded condition of the Court House.

JONAH.

So Cox Is Designated.

Anti-Saloon League Was Lining Up.

To Make an Example of Him In Campaign.

Resignation Only Logical Thing
For Party's Good.

Dick Will Likely Get Cox's Place on National Committee.

(Special Correspondence.)

Columbus, O., July 2.—Cox's retirement from politics is considered by many Republicans here as the most tenable thing to account for his resignation from the Republican national committee. No credence is given here today to the supposition that Mr. Cox agreed to resign before he was elected. Had there been any such understanding undoubtedly the administration leaders would have seen to it that in his letter of resignation Cox didn't justify all the opposition which has been made against him, both at Philadelphia and before.

Cox's enemies here refer gleefully to the fact that his letter admits he would have been an awful load on the ticket, and impliedly admits the truth of all the charges against him at the time he was trying to get the Cincinnati ripper through the legislature. These opponents also are not slow to see and rejoice that Cox in his letter vindicates the 17 men who voted against him at Philadelphia, and puts in a hole Gov. Nash and every other delegate who voted for him.

It is surmised that Cox's principal motive in getting out was his desire to prevent the projected attack of the Anti-Saloon league on him. This attack was to be historical and piteous. The league has had plates prepared for the issuing of a biography of Cox, which would have gone to the extent of maligning Mr. Cox's family as well as himself. His health is precarious, and, it is said, he has received medical advice to go abroad.

It is suggested on the contrary that an intimation from President McKinley that Cox would be a Jonah in campaignship had more than anything else to do with the resignation.

Judge Norris of Youngstown, who received 14 votes at Philadelphia, is mentioned as a candidate to fill the vacancy. So is Charles L. Kurtz, who unexpectedly delayed his departure for Europe. State Chairman Dick, however, is considered to be the probable selection which Senator Hanna will make. There is some talk to the effect that Senator Hanna will avoid personal responsibility by allowing the vacancy to be filled by the state central committee, though this committee has no rights in the premises.

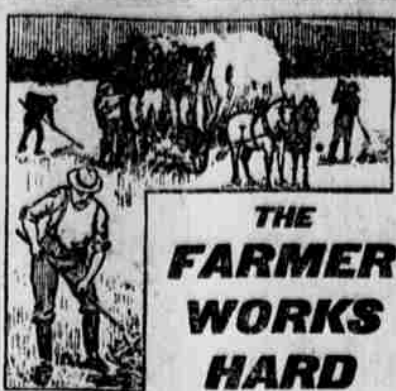

BEAUTIFUL CANES

Furnished to All of the Ohio National Delegates.

Dayton, Ohio, July 2.—(Spl.)—Captain Joseph H. Dowling has received a shipment of 100 elegant English walking sticks, each decorated with a handsome American flag, which are being distributed among the delegates to the Democratic national convention. The canes which are made of hickory, are a novelty, and arranged in such a way that a demonstration can be made by unfurling the flag at arm's length. That they will attract attention at Kansas City is unquestioned. The sticks and flags were donated by the Davis Whip Company, of Tippecanoe City, O. Mr. Davis is a dyed-in-the-wool Democrat and designed the cane, being particular to select the wood expressive of Democratic tenacity.

For a living. He has to. He must "make hay while the sun shines," no matter how he feels. The result is overwork. The stomach usually gives the first sign of strain. The organs of digestion and nutrition are deranged. Food does not nourish. Indigestion appears. In such a case Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery re-establishes the health by a complete cure of the diseased organs of digestion and nutrition. It cleanses the stomach, purifies the blood and removes the causes of disease. It is a temperance medicine, and contains no whisky nor alcohol.

"I was troubled with indigestion for about two years," writes Wm. Bowker, Esq., of Juliette, LaSalle Co., Ill. "I tried different doctors and remedies but to no avail, until I wrote to Dr. Pierce and he told me what to do. I suffered with a pain in my stomach and left side and thought it would kill me. I am glad to write and let you know that I am all right. I can do my work now without pain and I don't have that tired feeling that I used to have. Five bottles of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery and two vials of his 'Pleasant Pellets' cured me."

Sick people can consult Dr. Pierce by letter free. All correspondence private. Address Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y.

WRECK

At Botzum Station.

Head-On Collision on the Valley.

Joseph Farst of Mansfield, Injured.

Nearly 800 Excursionists on the Train.

Number Thirteen Proved to be a Bad
Omen.

A north-bound excursion train returning to Cleveland and the regular south-bound Valley train came together in a head-on collision a few hundred feet north of the Botzum station, seven miles north of this city at 7 o'clock Sunday evening.

On the regular train were a number of people from this city, but fortunately no one was seriously hurt.

On the excursion train there were 780 excursionists from Cleveland, who had spent the day at Cottage Grove. The excursion had been conducted under the auspices of the Hungarian Benevolent and Social Union of Cleveland. The excursion train was made up of 13 coaches including one baggage car. The regular train consisted of two passenger coaches and a stock car.

Fortunately, when the two trains came together, one—the excursion train—was almost at a standstill, and the regular train had slowed down to a comparatively low rate of speed. In the stock car on the regular train there were several horses and a stockkeeper—Joseph Farst, of Mansfield. He was the only person badly injured. He was thrown to the floor of the car and the frightened horses trampled him under foot, breaking three of his ribs. The only other person in any way injured was the engineer of the regular train, B. Oldham, and his injuries were slight.

The excursion train was to stop at a siding just south of the Botzum station to wait for the regular train to pass. There is another siding on the north side of the station, and instead of stopping at the first switch the train proceeded to the second siding. Just as it was about to turn into the switch the regular train was seen.

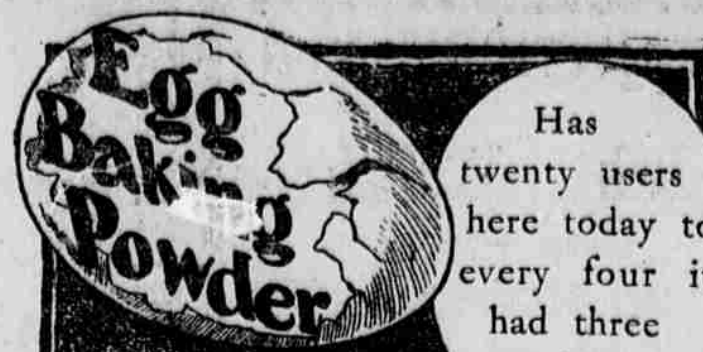

The engineer of the regular succeeded in slowing his train down to a rate of 10 or 12 miles an hour when it struck the engine of the excursion train. The regular engine was badly wrecked and the excursion engine was more or less damaged, although neither left the tracks.

There was a frightened lot of passengers on the excursion train when it was seen that a collision was inevitable. When the trains met terrible confusion reigned in every car. Men and boys shouted, and women screamed; many of the women fainted and had to be carried from the cars. Many of the boys and men who had been looking out of the windows when the collision occurred received bad knocks and bruises. For several minutes there was a strong likelihood of little children and babies being crushed to death in the frantic rush of the frightened passengers to get out of the cars.

Some of the more superstitious of the passengers, in commenting on the wreck, called attention to the fact that there were 13 coaches on the excursion train, and that the number of the regular engine was 13.

Seven years ago an excursion was given to some resort on the Valley road by the Hungarian Benevolent and Social Union, and in returning to Cleveland the train was wrecked at Botzum, and almost at the same spot where the collision occurred last night.

The railroad authorities of this city were notified of the wreck last night, and in a short time a wrecking train was on the scene of the trouble. After a delay of about two hours the wreck-

The Cleanit Works on East Miller ave., were completely destroyed by fire on Sunday. The one-story frame building had burned to the ground before the arrival of the fire companies. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is believed to have been from the combustion of chemicals used in the factory. The loss is estimated at several hundred dollars.
